Stephenville Launches New Website for Economic Development Strategy

STEPHENVILLE, Texas — The City of Stephenville launched a website dedicated to informing the public about the economic development strategy currently underway and to solicit the participation of Stephenville residents.

The website — www.stephenvilletxplan.com — gives residents multiple ways to participate and contribute to the City's new economic development strategy.

- Take the short community survey.
- Easily create your own map to show where you want to see development happen, where improvements need to be made, your favorite parks and businesses, and more. View and comment on maps others have created.
- Contact us directly with questions or comments.

The website will be used throughout the strategy development process to share documents and presentations by the consulting team.

The website can also be accessed at the City's Home Page, <http://www.stephenvilletx.gov/> and the City of Stephenville Facebook page.
